Pastor's Letter

April 13/14

Total Eclipse

Dear Parish Family,

I saw my first solar eclipse sixty years ago. I was twelve and did not know much about what was happening. The eclipse was partial, about the same as the one last Monday. I followed the event with a telescope I received as a Christmas gift. It had a primitive sun filter, so I was not able to see very well. But still, the event was amazing.

I talked about the eclipse with my Uncle Tony, who was my lifelong scientific curiosity mentor. Uncle Tony provided me with a book about solar eclipses. The book described the moment of totality as the real magic moment of any eclipse. During that time, you could see the corona, the atmosphere of the sun, and an intense light streaming away from its bright disk. You could also see solar prominences and flashes of light around the perimeter of the eclipse. Uncle Tony also gave me a National Geographic map of future solar eclipses. I began to talk to him about whether we could travel one day to see an eclipse. Total solar eclipses are not frequent and the dates on the map were all in the distant future. My uncle and I had some adventures together, but we never got to make that solar eclipse trip. He passed away in 2018, but he was very much on my mind last week when I got my own chance to take a trip and view a total solar eclipse.

The path of last Monday's eclipse included the Adirondack Mountains. One of the prime viewing sites was at an Adirondack Mountain Club lodge, where I often go to hike. I was able to secure a bunk there for the eclipse weekend. The weather on eclipse day was miraculous. We had clear blue skies and warm temperatures, despite a recent ten-inch snowfall. I found a quiet spot near Heart Lake and watched the eclipse unfold. Bit by bit, the moon began to block the sun. With my eclipse glasses, I could see the moon nibble away at the bright yellow disk.

And then the moment of totality came. We were enveloped in sudden darkness. We took off our glasses and looked at a beautiful sight. The corona, the sun's atmosphere, streamed its bright energy into space. Around the circumference, there were not one but several solar prominences, flashes of bright rose-colored loops rising off the sun's surface. I stepped back and saw several stars and planets in the sky. The snow-covered mountain landscape looked moonlit.

The reaction of us onlookers was a mixture of awe and celebration. Some watched in silence. Some spoke quietly to others like worshipers in a church, and some whooped and celebrated like revelers in Times Square on New Year's Eve. Some later told me their eyes filled with tears. The three minutes of totality passed so quickly. Suddenly the sunlight returned, like a flashlight shining back at us from the dark circle of the moon. It was as if a door had opened just for a moment, allowing us a look at the mystery of the universe. I thought at that moment I was understanding the opening verse of Psalm 19: The heavens are telling the glory of God. I sat in the snow and watched until the entire sun returned.

Later, at dinner, everyone spoke of how touched they were by the beauty of creation. Unlike other events, no one was let down or disappointed. We all shared a common sense that we had been given a glimpse of the mystery of the universe of which we are all a part.

Myself — I felt so grateful:

- for the miracle of a beautiful day and clear sky at exactly the right moment.
- for a chance to see the heavens proclaim the glory of God.
- for the many moments in life that bless us with a glimpse of God's goodness.
- for my Uncle Tony, who promised me this moment.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Fr. Mike

Knights of Columbus®

Jesus Christ: The Source and Summit of Christian Leadership

An understanding of Christian leadership must start and end with the leadership of Jesus himself. Yet from an outside perspective, the Jesus we see in the Gospels might seem an unlikely model for leadership. After all, typical models of leadership entail the pursuit and use of power, whereas Jesus was poor, lacked formal education and associated with the outcasts of society. He had no military, legal or political power and He ended His life as an executed criminal.

Nevertheless, Jesus is the most influential leader in human history and one need not be a Christian to see the truth of that claim. Two thousand years after his death, more than two billion people consider themselves his followers. Given the way he lived his life, he should not have attracted so many followers, but he did. (taken from COLUMBIA magazine, March 2023)

We Knights will often use the phrase, "Vivat Jesus", meaning "May Jesus Live!" We look to Him to lead us to a holy way of life. Gentlemen, please come join us as "followers" and brother Knights. For more information, reach out to Lou Puglisi (artist489@aol.com) or Charlie Mottern (chaliem@optonline.net).

Family Project: Divine Mercy Sunday

Our final Family Project for the 23-24 school year was held on Divine Mercy Sunday. Families learned about Jesus' promises to St. Faustina. Jesus gave Saint Faustina extraordinary promises of graces for those who would recite the Chaplet of the Divine Mercy. We created devotional candles to help them pray the chaplet together as a family.

We used decorative paper washi tape to create gold borders and make frames around the Divine Mercy image and learned to pray "Jesus, I Trust In You". Afterwards the children enjoyed Divine Mercy "Sundaes" with red and blue sprinkles symbolizing the blood and water to help them remember this important devotional and recognize it when they see it in church.

Our Family Project program will resume in the fall when religious ed classes commence. Please plan to join us for these intergenerational opportunities to grow your faith and share some special time with your children and other parish families.

Final classes for the 23-24 school year will be held on April 14th and 17th. First Holy Communion students will have a RETREAT DAY on April 28th and May 1st in the parish center. Parents are encouraged to participate.
